The Chair's Corner

Easter, Yvonne DePugh

Happy Resurrection!

I prefer to say Resurrection rather than Easter. The word Easter brings to mind bunnies, chocolate, jelly-beans, decorated eggs & those beloved Cadbury Eggs. Children dressed in their Easter finest reciting speeches & running out for the Easter egg hunt. That is Easter to many. Resurrection, on the other hand, is about Christ. His sacrifice on the cross, placement in the tomb & His resurrection.

Jacquie El Torro

We all have favorite Scriptures or, at least, Scriptures that speak to our spirits. Philippians 3:10-11 (NIV) does that for me: "I want to know Christ—yes, to know the power of his resurrection and participation in his sufferings, becoming like him in his death, and so, somehow, attaining to the resurrection from the dead." The resurrection is so powerful it changed the fate of all humanity throughout the ages.

Let's dive into those 34 words: I want to know Christ. Knowing, as being intimate with, Christ. To be so versed in His words that they are my words. Not having to think of "what would Jesus do". To know Jesus so well that He is my bestie or BFF, a closeness where I don't have to cry out "Lord help me!", for a mere whisper will do, because Christ is already with me. To know the power of His resurrection & participation in His suffering—this is something that I work at daily. There are times when I can envision Christ saying, "I died for you to be this stupid? You are whining about all that you are going through? Try carrying your own cross! Better yet, I was nailed to that cross for you & this is what I get in return?!" See, when Jesus is your best friend, the conversations are different than they are with folks who just call in the time of need.

We all want to share in the everlasting life, yet we have no desire to participate in His suffering. To know Christ on that personal level sets you up for participating in His suffering. Your road is about to get bumpy; like driving on a paved interstate expressway & transitioning to a gravel road. The moment you profess your faith that gravel road becomes a dirt trail. Suffering becomes long suffering & you wonder if it will ever end. Suffering takes so many forms; suffering from injustice, racism, health challenges (both physical & mental), loneliness & feeling empty inside. Suffering takes many shapes & forms, but we have hope. "For just as we share abundantly in the sufferings of Christ, so also our comfort abounds through Christ" (2 Corinthians 1:5 NIV). That is the joy of the resurrection—after the pain, the suffering & the confusion, comfort abounds through Christ. That should make you wanna shout!

I am working on my relationship with Christ. When I get upset, I am learning to hold my tongue. I am learning that I can enjoy the resurrection before my physical death because I die to sin every day &, through Christ, I am resurrected daily with my sin forgiven.

Jacqui

*Martin Luther's 95 Theses
Yvonne DePugh*

As I sat down to put together this newsletter, I found myself searching for something deep, reverent & soul-touching to write. Something that might strike a reader as the comfort they'd been looking for during this unprecedented time. How silly & arrogant of me! How human. The Word of God is deeper & touches souls on the daily. Why would I think that I would be able to contend with it? Bottom line, open your Bible.

Rachel Busch Jones

From one reader to another, I also urge you to research Luther's writings & experiences during a plague outbreak in his time. It's eight pages, so I won't be copying the whole thing here, but you can find it here in case you'd like to read it yourself: Whether One May Flee from a Deadly Plague.

One might call me lazy, but I call myself efficient, so when I found (via good ol' Google) an op-ed written by Erin M. Hawley for The Hill about Luther's letters called 'The plague, coronavirus and Martin Luther — why they all matter now', I felt even better.

Last, but definitely not least, please read on for a beautiful poem by a member:

Mercy's Gate

Father God now hear us call, weary on our faces fall ... Baring heavy hearts await, Your own hand at mercy's gate.

Earth—in labor pains we writhe—present sorrow, dangerous tide. In this flood deliver us, in our midst still Glorious!

We Your people (fearful flock), wand'ring, bleating, aimless walk; You our Shepherd promise full, in the plague will save and pull.

Give Your shepherds here on earth, more than human strength to gird—Bind up trembling knees and arms, for the battle sound alarm.

Overseers, deacons, priests, pastors, elders, laymen each ... On His strength alone depend, for your flocks—the ones you tend.

God your only resource true, knows your name, what you've been through. In His hands your tired heart, safety, health and joy imparts.

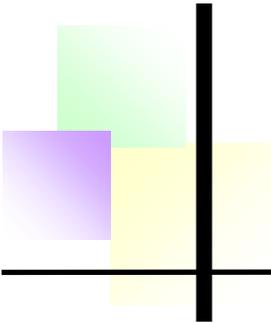

He your weakness fully knows, calls you ABLE—still afloat! Gives you Joshua's support—Lift your arms! Protect the fort!

Strong at home be ever true, here your First-Flock leans on you. Father gives you needed more, for all those beyond your door.

Pastor-Shepherd rise, stand full, ling'ring fear He WILL annul. You are His—be clothed anew, in His armor, heart be true!

Quiet spirit—eyes on Him—on you go now, nothing dim. Bright the path where Jesus leads, He your soul your heart your need.

Written by Anita Morck Foged in honor of our pastors.

Spiritual Growth

Many believers today are active in developing a Christian culture. They are social witnesses; they read their Bible & are active in their church. If you asked them, they would say their spiritual practices reflect that they are prioritizing their life right. JI Packer calls this a "conspiracy of misdirection."<sup>1</sup> Our true priority is learning to know God in Christ.

Sheila Westrick

The priority of the Holy Spirit is not to make us super achievers. We don't strive for, or produce, love, joy, peace, patience, kindness, self-control, goodness, faithfulness or gentleness. We don't choose a fruit of the Spirit & work really hard at manifesting that fruit. It's not about your effort, or just a particular fruit, that you want to manifest. You don't look to self to correct a problem of fruitlessness. You are the problem. You can't solve yourself. Rather, ALL are called to manifest the fruit of the Spirit in all its fullness. The fruit of the Spirit imitates the very character of God. The fruits are cultivated in us by the Holy Spirit when we keep our focus on Jesus.

We are transformed by the Holy Spirit through Jesus. Keep your eyes & heart on Jesus. Pray for discernment to know what points to Jesus versus yourself. Stop striving to be more generous, or joyful, or patient or kind. Let go of the idea that you are in charge. There is only one King: Jesus Christ the Son of God. Come to Jesus in Scripture & say "I need you; I want you." Don't pat yourself on the back because you read the entire book of Leviticus. Don't come to Scripture out of duty. Come to worship in gratitude, love & awe. If your eyes are on Jesus, you will be changed & the peace (the quietness of soul) that Paul says (Galatians) is the fruit of the Spirit will be given to you.

Meditation for Easter

Depending on which book of the Bible is referenced you will find different versions of who went to the tomb on the third day:

◇ "...Mary Magdalene, Mary the mother of James, and Salome..." Mark 16 (NIV)

◇ "...Mary Magdalene and the other Mary..." Matthew 28 (NIV)

◇ "...the women..." Luke 24 (NIV)

◇ "...Mary Magdalene..." John 20 (NIV)

Regardless of the account, all the writers agree that a woman carried the first Gospel message (He is alive!) to the disciples! A woman (or women) was/were the apostle to the apostles!

Literacy in the Shadows: Encouraging Faith

Marcella Nelson

Note: Specific details were intentionally omitted or changed to protect the affected language community.

For 22 years, Lutheran Bible Translators shared the task of translating the Bible for a small western African language community (WALC). In 2008, the New Testament was dedicated. "We no longer need an interpreter," one speaker said that day. "We can now read the Good News of Jesus Christ in our own language!" Fast forward to the present day. Boxes of printed WALC New Testaments are available. Local people want to use God's Word but many cannot read, even in their own language. In addition, there are others around that seek to persecute those who want to follow Christ. The local Lutheran church is discreetly planning to improve the WALC people's literacy. The goal is to recruit 35 literacy teachers to train 525 people to read in the next three years. Reading will unlock the Scripture in their own language, translated so many years ago. Lutheran Bible Translators is partnering with the WALC church to nurture Bible literacy through this new project. Ultimately, knowing God through reading the Bible will strengthen their faith and help them stand firm in the face of any persecution.

Translated Bibles are available in WALC language, but many people cannot read.

People want to use God's Word. But many cannot read, even in their own language.

Disaster Response

As spring & summer approach many women's quilting groups are finishing the last of their quilts & kits for the winter workdays. It is also a time when disaster strikes close to home with the increase of floods, tornados, hurricanes & fires. The two massive tornados in Tennessee are our most recent state-contained disaster. NALC Disaster Response sent a truckload of needed items to Reformation Lutheran Church in Hendersonville, TN. The warehouse had much of the needed items but found they were short on school kits.

New & used Bibles are also needed; consider having a Bible drive at your church or ordering a case (or more) online to be delivered right to the warehouse!

Concerned about shipping? You can write a Thrivent grant! Just remember, if you ship via UPS or FedEx, let Mary know so she can be there when they are delivered. We don't want the items stolen!

The NALC Disaster Response effort sends all your donated to domestic disasters only. Baby care kits can contain disposable diapers instead of cloth. Kits prepared for Lutheran World Relief (LWR) are accepted even if they are different than the NALC recommendations. The following is a list of all the items they collect:

- Baby care kits
- Health kits
- Blankets
- Flood buckets
- School kits
- Bibles
- Quilts of all sizes including any type of fabric, religious symbols, patriotic, etc.
- Gifts cards (Home Depot, Lowe's, Walmart, any national chain)
- And last, but not least, monetary donations are ALWAYS appreciated.

How to pack your disaster kits:

Pack completed kits (like items together) in boxes.

Label contents in LARGE, BLOCK LETTERS on the outside of the boxes.

Include the name & address of your church/group on each box with a label that says: A PROJECT OF [church/group name & address]

Please send your kits, material goods &/or gift cards to:

Coat of Many Colors

During my vacation to Florida in February, I found myself (for the first time in a decade) away from home on Ash Wednesday. After verifying service availability at Christ Lutheran I hopped in a transport & headed that direction. I attended service in their beautiful sanctuary - I was entranced by the water fountains behind the breathtaking cross made of copper pieces - & was then gifted a quick tour of the church's back hallways, in which resides this amazing collection by artist Yvonne DePugh, a member of the congregation. Pastor's wife Elizabeth Warfel kindly & gracefully gave me a ride back to my resort, which was most definitely out of her way. The entire experience reminded me of how blessed we are to have such a wonderful NALC family.
